Physio 1 is used for a wide variety of treatments. It is the most common model for Classic massage therapy. This model, the Electric version, is height adjusted via a foot control.

Physio 1 is available in 4 versions:

- * Physio 1 hydraulic
- * Physio 1 hydraulic with adjustable backrest/leg section
- * Physio 1 electric

* This version, Physio 1 electric with adjustable backrest/leg section. The adjustable backrest/leg section means that the leg pad of the table can be raised, thus enabling the patient to sit with this section as backrest.

CE certification

CE certified according to MDR.

Chassis

The chassis is made of powder-coated all-welded steel tubes. The Construction is very sturdy. Its low minimum height and high maximum height makes the Physio table very flexible, user friendly and patient friendly.

Castors

With the Physio 1 table comes a so called Wheel pair as standard, which means two small transport wheels placed just above floor height. To activate them, lift the opposite short-end side (image). Central locking castors or separately locking castors are available as option. Central locking means all castors locks/releases with one press.

Headrest

Tilttable forward and backwards. The backwards motion can, as an example, be used if a pregnant lady isn't able to lie down on the table but prefers to sit on a chair and rest her head in the headrest from the short-end side while having a back and neck massage.

Adjustable armrests

Adjustable in height and around its axis.

Side armrests

Can very easily be folded up in position when needed. Included with all models in widths 45-60 cm (70 is the only exception). The pad is ca 14 cm wide and 51 cm long on its longest point, 36 at its shortest.
